

2022 Picchi Award for Excellence in Cancer Research

Enter by 23 May 2022

Up to three $10,000 prizes are offered to PhD students from VCCC Alliance member organisations.

Sponsored by the Picchi Brothers Foundation, the awards provide a launch pad for international travel and collaboration.

Students are invited to make a submission to receive a prestigious award in basic science, clinical science or population health.

Up to three $10,000 prizes recognising excellence in cancer research will be awarded to PhD students in a tradition that has spanned more than a decade and acknowledges potential world-class researchers embarking on their careers.

The prizes will recognise, develop and support talented students from the alliance and will:

- > Support personal and professional development towards research independence
- > Enable recipients to engage in collaborative work
- > Provide the opportunity to attend or participate remotely or physically in an international conference/s.

Applications now open... until 5.00pm Monday 23 May 2022.

Get started ASAP as supporting documentation is required.
